The Life and Career of a Famous

His Appearance as an Orator in the Virginia House of

Frem John Esten Cooko'a Storlea ot the Oi Dominion.]

As the seene which took pince on this occasion was quite a remarkable one I will describe it.

one I will describe it.
You will remember what I said about the English law called the "Stamp Act," which ordered that the Americass should not transact business unless nil the papers had a certain stamp upon them. As you have been told, this produced a great excitement in the colonies. It was regarded as an open attempt to make them the alayss of Enginad, as they were not represented by any of their own people in the Parliament which made the law; and when the stamps came over they were so angry that meant to resist, but not to act in a passion. It would he far better, they thought, to pelltion the King to do their instice, than to tell him in plain words that they would not obey him.

When Patrick Henry reached Willamsborg he found that this was the general way of thicking. Scarcely a single member of the Burgeases was ready to act promptly. They still hoped for a "redress of grievances" as it was called, by sending a pelltion to the King; but Patrick Henry had made up hts mind that this would do no good. He, therefore, determined to act boldly, and soou after the fllows casseubled he rose to address live city in the man who gets un readily R E Owon,

They were a grave and imposing bedy, very different from the plain, countrymen whom he was accustemappearance Iadicated their rank in society. On all sides were powdered lieads and ruffled shirts, and taces full of dignity. They were almost all large landholders, accostomed to lag countryman as before.

As he rose in als place, the Burgesses turned their heads and sooked in him. They senreely knew this name, and no doubt thought it presumptious in this plainly dressed young man to be taking the lead, and telling older persons what was best to be done. But Patrick Henry paid no attention te their looks of surprise. He had made up his mind to prise. He had made up his mind to say what he had to say, and give his ewn opinion at least on the subject of Will take pleasure in making bids on the stamp Act. He spoke in a quiet tone and was listened to in deep silence. The Stamp Act was fliegal and oppressive to Virginia, he said; and be therefore, moved that the House of Burgesses should pass the resolution he was about to read to them. He then read the resolutions, which to had written on a blank leaf which he had written on a blank less torn out of an old law book. The tone of them was respectful, but there was no doubt what they meant, as the last of them declared that no one had last of them declared that no one had the right to tax Virginia but the Virginia Burgesses.

The resolutions were looked upon as violeat and very imprudent. They, in fact, asserted that the King had no right to levy taxes in Virginia, which was very much like rebellion; and several speakers at once rese, and denounced them as highly injudicious. There was a violent excitement as one after another spoke ngainst the resolutions, and then Patrick Henry rose to defend them.

Ills whole appearance had changed, and the Burgesses soon found that the poorly clad young countryman was a matchless speaker, and superior to all of them. Ills head was early the fact that the poorly clad young countryman was a matchless speaker, and superior to all of them. of, and some opposed to the resolutions; but at last it was seen that Henry's wonderfol elequence had swept away everything. When the House was called upon to say whether the resolutions should pass or net, they were passed—the last and most important of them hy a single vote.

The Burgesses then adjourned in the midst of general excitement. One of them rushed out, declaring that he would have given five hundred guincas for a single vote, in order to defeat the resolutions. But the peofession of the same, Geo W Smith,

The people, everywhere were talking about the Stamp Act, and the Burgesses knew that something would have to be done. They were generally rich men, with large farms, and lived in grest style. They loved England, for the Virginia people had never torgotten that their fathers and grandfathers were Englishmes; and they were quite willing that the King of England should continue to reign over them; if they were treated like the rest of his subjects who lived in England. If they were not, they meant to resist, but not to act in a passion. It would be far better, they banking a whole store of recuperative.

JOBBERY.

A bit of Republican Theft. $88.000 paid to collect $80.000. [Courter-Jearnal.] Senator Beck, In his recent speech on the legislative, executive and ju-dicial appropriation bill, pointed out a leak which the Republican Adminletrations have taken special pains to keep in operation for the purpose of rewarding favorites for political ser-vices. That leak is in the customvices. I hat leak is in the custom-house system. Out of the one hundred and twenty-eight custom-houses, there are thirty-six whose expenses rage from $1,000 to $20,000 over, and above the receipts. There are thirteen custom-houses in Malie, sione. In twelve of these establishments the callection aggregate $90.000 and the collections aggregate $30,000 and the empleyers are paid $88.000. The Portland custom-house is the only one that pays expenses in Malue. At the Frenchman's Bay custom-house, the sum total collections is $6.78; yet There was a violent excitement as one after another spoke ngainst the rose lutter are; situated there a horde of officials who cost the country over the feered, them.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5, '79.

Ed. South Kentuckian:

Some things have transpired this week to cast a good deal of Light upon subjects that are being aginized just now. To begin with, the evidence taken by the Wallace committee lliustrates rather forcibly the kind of 'free elections" the Radicals are so anxious about. Every unbiased reader will see, in the evidence aircady taken, amule proof that the 2.00 aiready taken, ample proof that the 2.60 supervisors law is nothing less than 2.00 the most corrupt and outrigeens minchinery for carrylag elections, and every voter camble of putting two and two together will promptly discern in these elements the motives which prompt the Republican party to fight so deaperately for the retention of this nachlinery, now entirely mider its control. Another Hinstration of the heautles of Radical pretentions is the memorial of the Rhodo Island soldiers, presented by Senator McDonaid a day or two since. Senator Anthony, who has wasted a great deal of breath in trying to create an impression that the Democrats are untriesdly to the Union soldier, now turns up not only as the anthor and turns up not only as the author and fluisher, so to speak, of election frauds in his State, but charged with procuring the removal of soldlers from Federal positions to accure their pinces for his own relations. The election frauda charged 2.64 are in the nature of interference by

With just laws, tike the rest of the free States, Rhode is-

Dr. Mary Walker's Triumph.

Washington Special to the Chicago Times.] An unhallowed attempt upon the part of four Confederate Brigadiers to abridge the rights of a citizen was set at naught this afternoon by the cool pluck of a determined woman, who, dressed in male attire, routed the Brigadiers in the most triumphant fushion. The herolne of this rxciting attempt upon the part of the Brigadiers by national authority to abridge the State rights of Dr. Mary Walker occupied a seat in the ladies' Mallery of the Senate this afternoon. Dr. Mary was attired in n full suit of blick broadcloth, ent man-fashion throughout. She carried in her hand

THE BLAINE DEBATE, for adversity and the contumely of mun have conspired to make her a Bourbon. She did not admire anything Itlaine said, but confined her soultments to a few indignant sniffs that disturbed no one. But it was not undisturbed no one. But it was not until Vance, of North Carolinia, got to going that she recognized a kindred tont. Then she boiled over with enthusiasm that her girlish nature could not restrain. She began to pound with her umbrella upon the floor of the gallery, making a rumble like fulling crockery. Anthony, who was in the chair, turned his head at the ranket and it ceased, but a mothent later Dr. Mary again

GAVE WAY TO HER EMOTIONS. and began a diligent and caraest effort to pound a hole through the floor at her feet. This hast was too much. Anthony beekened to a messenger and sent him aloft. The messenger was a gray-headed confederate who had seen years of active service. He advanced to Dr. Mury and told her she would have to leave the galley.

"I shan't do any such thing. It you touch me l'il scream and kick."

"But you tuust go. Such are my orders."

"Get onl, you masty thing. You touch me l'il scream and kick."

"This conversation created a commodien. The Confederate messenger, when he saw Dr. Mary's hand—crooken for screating, called two assislants, and then the three able-bodied Confederates marched down upon Dr. Mary. One of them remembered that it had taken five me to get Dr. Mary out of the first and all hards and had have been been should be advanced to payment as fast boulders the full analysis of his coucty from manher it lot, is cleaver, each lank of Hopkins illo er-Planker's Bank of Hopkins i and began a dillgent and caraest ef-

"Go away," she said. "You touch your little finger upon my person and you will die the death of dogs."

The messengers fell back, consulted, and then extled in a capliol policeman, who added his gorgeous uniform to the demoralized groupe. At the sight of this uniform minion of the law Dr. Mary

SHOOK WITH RAGE. "It will take about five minutes to "It will take about five minutes to settle your hash if you come near me, Mister Man," said she; "I would just enjoy ripping that white vest of yours into rags and seratching open your tat cheeks." Come on, all of you, and I will klek and blue my way through you all. I guess I know my rights." The men closed about her, each mentally calculating where he should grip. Two eyed her chaste ankles, and two sought to encompass her shrinking waist, but a glance from

THE DOCTOR'S EYES made them all recoll. At this Ilme the galleries were in such a state of amusement that the officers were rery much embarrassed. Finally matters were compromised by a Bourbon break-down. The empitol policeman was left to mount guard policeman was left to mount guard. Piows made to order Promptty. over the doctor, and he did not henve her mith Vance's speech was ended. Then Dr. Mary went out and for ten minutes blocked up the State lobbies by relating in a way tond release. infinites blocked up the State lobbles by relating in a very loud voice the indignities offered her. She had a crown of two hundred people about her for a lime, until she had fully vented her wrath and had consented

Young men these modern times are beginning to look after a voung lady's health belore asking hor band. As a matter of business this is quiterlight. Who wants a pathe, sickly, lifedess, nervous and hysterical woman for a wife? Young lady your disease is allpieded in your very countenance. Ynor feeble walk, your short breathing, your want of bloom to the cheek, your fileless over all speak that you are in ill health, and as asany young genis not experts shose plays they preceive confection and do not wish to marry you. If you should be thus affileted send at once for Dr. Dromgoole's English Female liliters, and its use will all ouce restore you to health.

Poor Thing.

We plty that much abused organ, the liver. It is abused and held responsible for every little ache and pain. It is made to dudity near-public ache and pain. It is made to dudity near-public ache and the worked to leath. This is quite detrinented, unwise and nessite. Let the detreate the strong medicines. Keep year bowels open now and then by the une of indirections, those which are pleasant and harmless. Such a remer's failey's Saline Apericat, which is a pleasant, rooling and effection purgative, and efferves cess like sods water. It is sold all one-half the usual price and is all you need.
